Madam Vice-President,

I am obliged to take the floor again. We regret that Armenia has again resorted to its irresponsible statements, demonstrating the destructive approach.

Armenia must understand that decades of aggression and occupation have only resulted in hostility and discord. The fulfilment of its obligations under the 10 November Trilateral Statement is a pre-requisite for consolidating peace and stability, prosperity and sustainable economic development in the region.

Armenia must put an end to its provocative actions, refrain from its malicious intentions and grasp the new realities. The reality is that Nagorno-Karabakh conflict went to the history and does not exist any longer. Azerbaijan has effectively restored its territorial integrity and sovereignty over its internationally recognized territories by enforcing Armenia to withdraw its armed forces.

Armenia should better look into the future and adequately evaluate the unique opportunities created by these new realities, otherwise, this country itself is drawing the line over the prosperous future of its people. Armenia should be urged to live up to its imperative obligations under the international law and fully implement the Trilateral Statement signed by its own Prime-Minister.

Thank you.
